

11th Military Health Course on Methodology and Medical Writing

TSMHS, Tunis: April 15 - 19, 2024

Dear Colleagues and Friends,

The Tunisian General Directorate of Military Health organizes, under the Patronage of the National Defense Minister and with the collaboration of the Faculty of Medicine of Tunis, its 11th Course on Methodology and Medical Writing during the period from April 15 to 19, 2024 at the Training school of the Military Health Services (TSMHS) in Tunis.

At the beginning, in 2013 the course was national and only French. It has evolved quickly to become international and this year, it will be organized in three parallel sessions French, English and an article writing session. The course is accredited by the National Authority for Health Evaluation and Accreditation (INEAS). It is recommended by the International Committee of Military Medicine, and open to the participation of officers of the Tunisian medical framework and member countries of the ICMM. It is animated by lecturers, military and Tunisian civilians from the Faculty of Medicine of Tunis.

The course targets physicians, general practitioners as well as specialists, dentists, pharmacists and veterinaries, working in teaching hospitals or other medical facilities. Priority is accorded to those who have studies in progress or draft articles and would like to have them published. The course offers an opportunity to develop skills in methodology and medical writing and to finalize scientific work initiated in order to have a greater chance of publication in medical journals.

Senior Colonel (MD) Riadh ALLANI
Course Director